

Biography of CW4 Jonneé Carter, U.S. Army Reserve

Chief Warrant Officer Jonnee' Carter joined the Association of Military Legal Administrator in 2016 and has served as Chief, Administrative Officer, 2018-2019 and Membership Chair, 2016-2017.

She has served for over 24 years in the Reserves and currently works at The Office of The Judge Advocate General as an advisor to the Chief Warrant Officer of the Corps on Army Reserve systems and processes. She has recently completed Volume I and II of the Judge Advocate Warrant Officer Chronicles documenting lifetime experiences of Active, Reserve, and National Guard warrant officers, sharing the challenges of serving across the globe all the way back to 1945.

Prior to her assignment to OTJAG she worked in your traditional JAG office in Salt Lake City, UT, Honolulu, HI and Birmingham, AL. Working in an embedded unit, OSJA, is typical to working in an active duty office with control of your own budget and working directly for a deputy SJA and with a senior paralegal day-to-day. All three of these assignments have their own unique perks and she would gladly return to any of these locations if opportunity presented itself.

She is in her senior year of completing her bachelor's degree in management at American Military University on a full-time basis. Completing her degree is long overdue so her college classes are her number one priority this year.

Her hobbies include spending quality time at the gym, preparing for the new Army Combat Fitness Test and quilting (if time permits).

Jonnee' is married to Charles Carter, who is also serving in the Army, and has one grown child: Brian, who is a graduate of Full Sail University, in Media Communications and currently works in New York City. She also has three mini dachshunds that still live at home and have been a part of the family since her time in Hawaii.

She is willing to serve in an ad hoc voluntary capacity such as the June Events Planning committee. This support role should not be a tenured position that is voted for by the members.
